

"At long last, here is the time-traveling goat-centric Passover adventure my people have been awaiting for thousands of years."

—LEMONY SNICKET

THE BABY RAN OFF
WITH THE AFIKOMAN
AND CAN'T TELL US
WHERE SHE PUT IT.

NOW ABSOLUTELY NO ONE
CAN FIND IT ANYWHERE.

WHICH MEANS WE'VE ALL BEEN STUCK AT THIS SEDER . . .

EEHEEHEE

FOR SIX MONTHS!

In the company of a wisecracking, time-traveling goat, a boy takes a leap into space and a journey through thousands of Passover Seders past to retrieve the lost afikoman and bring this Seder to an end.

Best-selling author Dara Horn's surreal, dryly funny adventure illuminates family, history, and the meaning and experience of Passover.

DARA HORN is the winner of three National Jewish Book Awards and was a finalist for the Kirkus Prize. Her books include The World to Come, All Other Nights, and most recently, People Love Dead Jews. She lives with her family in New Jersey.

THEO ELLSWORTH is a cartoonist who likes to listen and ask questions. He lives with his family in Montana.
